

Letter of support for Alexander Struzh. August 19, 2025

We, Vodafone GmbH, are writing this letter to express our support for Alexander Struzh, an IT consultant.

Over the past twenty years, we have had the opportunity to work closely with the consultant and we have been very impressed by his technical expertise and professionalism.

The consultant has played a crucial role in supporting our IT initiatives, especially in areas such as business analysis, concept creation, client/server and GUI development. His in-depth knowledge of business processes, client/server architecture, and service-oriented architecture, coupled with his ability to analyze business requirements and provide support throughout the process — from conception to technical design and implementation — has contributed significantly to the success of our projects.

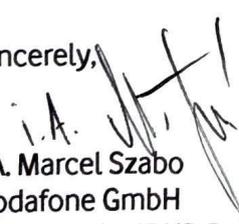

He has also consistently demonstrated his managerial ability by successfully leading development teams on multiple projects.

The consultant has consistently delivered high-quality work, met tight deadlines adhering to industry best practices. His ability to integrate seamlessly with our internal teams and offer valuable insights has made him an indispensable part of our operations.

We are convinced of Alexander Struzh's abilities and are happy to recommend him for future projects or engagements.

Should you require further details regarding our cooperation, please feel free to reach out to us.

Sincerely,

i.A. Marcel Szabo
Vodafone GmbH
Team leader IDHD Delphi & Mlog